Integrating Co-Scholastic Activities in Teaching at Upper Primary Level

Innovative educators are concerned with improving student achievement by seeking ways to create a rigorous, relevant, and engaging curriculum to make schooling more relevant and fun for children while building transferable life skills.

Co-scholastic Education is an integral part of the school curricular programme complementing the formal education and contributing to the holistic development of the students. Therefore, the Board has brought out the new book to facilitate teachers in effectively integrating life skills, values, health and sanitation etc. in the teaching-learning process. The activities and worksheets centre around students' questions and concerns, and therefore, will enable them to develop life skills by applying interdisciplinary and disciplinary skills in a range of real-life contexts.

In addition, the Board has also brought out Hindi versions of its publications as given in the table below:
