While calling for contributions for the Journal, the Editorial Board suggests that the contributions

- need to sustain the bulletin's scholarly tone,
- be factually informative in character
[sharing of data relating to statistical analyses, exam results, schools/student strength etc]
- uphold intellectual integrity
- attempt to illustrate and explain in greater depth the organization's motto and message of excellence
- serve as a vehicle to share innovative ideas and best practices with the teaching community
- raise awareness about current thinking
- share information about ongoing events and programmes in their respective schools/organisations, and
- serve as a forum to seek opinions about new academic initiatives

Note: Reports, events and activities should attempt to focus on processes and outcomes

The editorial team recommends that the contributors may avoid the use of potentially unauthorised material from the internet. The mere acknowledgement of such sources does not detract from the fact that, this practice may be a breach of professional ethics. Therefore, the Editors have withheld such contributions.

It has been noticed that some schools send a number of entries which we are unable to accommodate due to constraint of space. You are, therefore, requested to select the best and forward only ONE/TWO entries.
